

Caladia is a heating system that is locally controlled by a room thermostat and driven by a current pulse that compensates for any heat lost in the room.

You can use it to heat your house innovatively, economically, ecologically and save money at the same time!